TELEGRAPHIC.

Reports from Various Parts of the Country say Republicans are Enthusiastic Over the Nomination.

"It's all Right," is What Grant Said, but it was a Bitter Disappointment.

Indiana Democrats Recommend Hendricks to the Cincinnati Convention.

New York, June 9.—The Herald concludes its article: The republican leaders in this State having gone into three terms with all their zeal, will be crippled by this tremendous mistake, and by the loss of prestige which attends its failure, and if the democratic party should be reunited, the chances are against Garfield carrying New York whose loss would be fatal to his hopes.

The republican party is weakened by the long contest at Chicago. Weakened by strenuous efforts for the third term by its leaders; weakened by its nomination of a ticket which none of its members would have recommended or thought of in advance, and it will have a hard battle to fight if the democratic party should make a reasonably good nomination.

St. Louis, June 9.—The Globe-Democrat will publish the following editorial on the tenth if there is any doubt that Garfield can command the harmonious support of the republican party. We challenge the doubter to find a single exception of discontent; a single audience of weakness during the past six months. Republicans have been open in the expression of their opinions. Of their grievances we have heard from men who would not vote for Grant, and men who would not vote for Blaine, from the reformers, anti third termers, the young scrappers, and the tea party, but we have not ever had a fifth avenue conference to a possibility of any republican dissatisfaction with Garfield.

Boston, Mass., 9.—Despatches from various points in New England report satisfactory reception by republicans of the result of the Chicago convention. In various places salutes were fired. Despatches from Augusta and Portland, say now that Garfield was a disappointment, but was received cheerfully.

At Lewiston a salute of thirty-eight guns was given.

Chicago, Ill., June 9.—Grant passed through the city this morning.

New York, June 9.—The Herald's Washington special says: "President Hayes expressed himself as delighted with the nomination. He says, 'it will consolidate the party for national success. Perhaps no better candidate could have been made.' Schurz said: 'Garfield belongs to a class of public men of large ability, and has statesman-like views, which place him far above the ordinary man.' He thinks Garfield will make a good president, and conduct his administration on a high standard."

Saratoga, Pa., June 9.—The nomination of Garfield and Arthur was celebrated here to-night by fire works and bon fires.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 9.—Two hundred guns were fired on the nomination of Garfield and Arthur. Fire works were general.

Washington, June 9.—Senator Blaine sent the following to Garfield as soon as he received the announcement of Maine's votes on the final ballot:

Washington, D. C., June 9.
To Hon. James A. Garfield.
Maine's votes cast for you, goes with my hearty concurrence, and I hope it will aid in securing your nomination, and assuring victory to the republican party.

(Signed) JAS. G. BLAINE.
GARFIELD'S REPLY.
Chicago, June 9, 1880.

Hon. Jas. G. Blaine:
Accept my thanks for your generous dispatch.

(Signed,) JAS. A. GARFIELD.

New York, June 9.—The World ridicules the ticket and says that the democrats will certainly beat it in their nomination.

There is no doubt that a feeling of disappointment exists at the defeat of Blaine, who was a favorite; but aside from this, the nomination is probably as satisfactory as could have been made. It is believed that it will do much to harmonize the differences between the parties and bring out a full republican vote. There will be a grand ratification meeting this evening. A salute of a hundred guns were fired on the reception of the nomination, and another this evening. The Bulletin in this evening editorially treats the subject principally in the light of a gratifying republication of the third term doctrine. The Post, which has been out spoken for Grant endorses the nominee squarely and strongly, and admits that Grant or Blaine would have aroused antagonism which Garfield will quiet.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS.
Indianapolis, Ind., 9.—The Democrat State convention met at 10 o'clock this morning and was called to order by B. C. Shaw, chairman of the central committee. Hon. T. B. Hurd, of Bartholomew county was chosen temporary secretary. Congressional districts were then called and the convention selected a committee on permanent organization.

Goy. Thos. A. Hendricks, was chosen permanent chairman and John W. Keams, permanent secretary. The nomination of Gov. Hendricks was received with the utmost enthusiasm, numbers of the convention cheering for several minutes and many of the delegates rising to their feet and swinging their hats.

The Resolutions instructing the delegates to the Cincinnati convention to present Hendricks for President and also that they shall vote as a unit on all questions before the convention. The districts were then called for the selection of the delegates to the Cincinnati convention.

St. Petersburg, June 9.—At Petropavlovsk Fortress the body of the Empress lies in a magnificent gilded coffin with her face visible through a light veil. The crown and other decorations of the Empress are surrounded by a mass of flowers.

London, June 9.—The Caleague Gazette announces that Cardinal J. Tobin has been instructed to inform Germany that Cairo is prepared to enter into a new negotiation upon the church question.

London, June 9.—The Lord Mayor of Dublin telegraphed the mayor of every city in the United States and Canada as follows: I regret to say to you that funds are still needed for the relief of distress in Ireland in many districts, now equal to any previous time. The distress is much felt by farmers who dread the work house but can get nothing else till crops come. I feel deeply grateful for generosity already shown. I cannot keep asking further assistance for the mansion house fund.

Chicago, Ill., June 9.—The national convention of the greenback party met at 12:30 p. m. F. P. Dewes, of Pennsylvania, was chosen chairman of the national convention and called the assembly to order. Rev. Dr. Ingalls, of Des Moines, Iowa, offered prayer in the course of which he said the preachers of the country agreed to offer prayers for the republican and democratic convention on May 31st, 1880, and that now the greenbackers whom they ignored, came on their own hook. This was greeted with applause and cheers, and the subsequent portion of this petition called forth applause and loud cries of "amen."

The chairman, Mr. Dewes made a brief speech in which he alluded to Garfield, Blaine and Grant in terms of the greatest disapproval, which caused an applause. The galleries were nearly empty, but the seats were well filled. The Secretary states that 650 were present, representing every state in the Union.

Mr. Gilbert was made temporary chairman, made a speech, which was of some length, and said that he was glad of the slight defection in his party last summer which had rid them of hummers and cowards.

P. B. Maxon, of Kansas, and Chas. Litchman, of Massachusetts, were appointed secretaries.

The secretary read the statement of the national executive convention, the roll of the states was called for the nomination of delegates to be appointed upon the various committees

WOOL MARKET.
Boston, June 9.—The wool market is dull and scarcely enough business doing to furnish reliable quotations. Prices are fast settling down to figures where buyers can purchase with more confidence. There have been no sales of Colorado Spring wool of any consequence.

Our Trade With Mexico.
For about five weeks we have been publishing an article from the pen of Mr. Henry S. Brooks, on "Our relations with Mexico," which article was evidently prepared for the press about four years ago. It treats in a very exhaustive way on the many obstacles to be encountered in trading with Mexico.

The writer traces them to three principal causes, namely. The defective means of communication. The excessive tariff and the lack of protection to life and property.

At the first of these causes, we yield to the truth of it. Mexico has few railroads and a few stage lines. However, every town of importance is accessible by wagon roads or mule paths.

Notwithstanding all that, Freight and fares in stages are lower than they are in the United States, west of the Rocky Mountains. With respect to the high tariff on imported goods, and the local tariff exacted by several States through which goods are forwarded, it is a very deplorable fact. The masses of the Mexican people are the sufferers thereby, and not the merchants. In the interior of New Mexico where merchants do not have to compete with one another, as is the case in the United States, they make a good percentage on their wares.

American merchants should not hesitate trading with Mexico on this account. They will clear as large profits as in the United States, and in fact larger than in the eastern States.

The property of foreigners is safe in Mexico, particularly if merchants attend to their business and do not dabble in the politics of the country. This statement can be attested by thousands of foreigners residing and carrying on some business in Mexico. The majority of the merchants and manufacturers in Mexico are foreigners.

We are rather inclined to think, that were it not for the rooted prejudice of Americans against Mexicans, a more thriving trade would be carried on between the two countries. Americans want everybody and everything Americanized, if not they will not think of approaching any person or object which is not American. They will not assimilate in anything with the Mexican people, and not even learn the language, unless they be brought in very close contact with the Mexicans. Not so the other nations; the French and German residents in Mexico have made large fortunes and do not complain of ill treatment.

If European merchants have accumulated wealth in Mexico, even at a time when internal affairs have been very much disturbed by revolutions, why can not American merchants and manufacturers trade with Mexico and derive some profit from it.

We believe that if Americans would try to secure the Mexican trade they would set aside those blind prejudices against that country and its inhabitants.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Garfield's name gives satisfaction everywhere. From no quarter is there the slightest dissatisfaction among Republicans.

Arthur's nomination leads all the wounds and unites party in the state where its particularly needs strength. Active politicians say Republican prospects were never brighter than now.

The Journal of Commerce, "Dem." says of the whole list of candidates named at the convention this is undoubtedly the strongest. We shall not be discouraged if men of honesty and ability like Garfield are called to the White House. The Democrats at Cincinnati will give us a man of equally high character and the people of the country may breathe more freely in regard to their political future than for years.

The Times says: There will be bolters, scratchers or independents who bear the Republican name who cannot work and honestly vote for Garfield but there is no thorough going Republican who will not accept him as a representative of the party principles and a faithful depository for the party trust.

Cincinnati, O., June 9.—The public was vociferously enthusiastic at the announcement of Garfield's nomination. A brief period of cheering was indulged in and then the crowds melted away almost instantly, men running to carry the news to others. Every where among Republicans the result was received with great satisfaction.

To-night a ratification meeting full of enthusiasm was held at club quarters and later a procession with bands of music paraded. The Commercial is very strongly in favor of the nomination.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Randolph Tucker, democrat of Virginia, says Garfield is the best man in the party and if the country is to have a republican President, he would rather have Garfield. Senator Withers, democrat of Virginia says the nomination is a good one but the republican party did itself a great injury by the contest in the convention.

Galena, Illinois June 9.—General Grant was at General Rawley's office as usual this evening receiving dispatches. When the news of Garfield's nomination was received he said it was all right, that he was satisfied, and soon left for home. It is evident however he may control himself, that he feels deeply disappointed and humiliated but his friends who were depending on his success as a means to their promotion feel it quiet as deeply as he. If Grant has received any messages they have been sent up to his house and the public have no knowledge of them.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Postmaster General Key is highly pleased with the nomination and says it is one of the strongest nominations that the republican party could have made.

New York, June 9.—Attorney General Devous says it is a fine nomination and will reconcile the differences heretofore existing and enable the republican party to present a united front.

THE ANTI-THIRD SPEAK.
St. Louis, Mo., June 9.—The following dispatch explains itself:
To Hon. Jas. A. Garfield.
Chicago, Illinois.

We extend our warmest congratulations to the statesman this day called to lead a party to the fruition of its highest aims.

Signed, H. Hitchcock, E. Prentiss, G. A. Einkenburg, L. Eaton, R. E. Rameam.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Hon. James A. Garfield—Chicago, I congratulate you with all my heart, upon your nomination as president of the United States.

You have saved the republican party and the country from a great peril and assured the continued success of republican principles.

(Signed,) JOHN SHERMAN.

IN SAN FRANCISCO.
San Francisco, June 9.—In this city the nomination of Garfield was received with surprise, though some shrewd observers had predicted it.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Oleary has challenged Rowell on behalf of Hart colored to compete for the championship of the world in a six day race to take place in New York, Boston or Chicago and the stakes to be $5,000 a side, Rowell to receive $500 for expenses.

London, June 9.—The Royal hunt race on Ascot Heath was won by Stratford, Olive, second, Turtle third.

Paris, June 9.—The Senate adopted a bill providing for a convention with the United States settling the indemnity due to Frenchman by America for damage sustained during the civil war.
